

Leadership Development Mentoring

Boost your leadership ability

This program is designed to fit managers and leaders at all levels, but also project managers and others who lead without direct reports.

The mentoring program enables leaders to reflect and process new situations, problems and challenges together with an external experienced person. The mentor doesn't take over the responsibility, but in a series of systematic conversations the Mentee is given the opportunity to analyze her situation from additional perspectives, make choices and priorities more clearer, and act and communicate more efficiently.

The program consists of a series of individual meetings, with time to practice new behaviors between the meetings. For this purpose, an hour bank is established, which will be counted down as the hours are used for physical meetings or longer telephone encounters. Shorter telephone or email contacts, questions and advices ("Hotline") can take place without any deductions being made from the time bank. Before each meeting, the mentee sends an agenda with the questions and discussion points to the mentor.

Objective

The program aims is to make the mentee clearer in her actions, more effectively manage the situations that the business requires, and achieve her goals.
